[REDACTED]
With your term on MAGID drawing to a close, let me express my gratitude for the advice and support you have given us. As an active and articulate member of the group -- and as an acting co-chairperson -- your work has helped us greatly as we have tried to grapple with issues that are central to the effective management of the Directorate.

Because so many of these problems are so intractable, progress is sometimes painfully slow. But we have managed to move forward, and we must keep up the pressure for further improvement.

I hope that you will continue to give us the benefit of your views, and that you will help us keep open the channels of communication throughout the Directorate.

I want to thank you for your active role as a member of MAGID during the past year -- and especially for your efforts as acting co-chairperson during [REDACTED] absence.

In helping Paul Walsh and me grapple with some of the most difficult management issues, we know you shared some of the frustration we sometimes experience in trying to move the seemingly immovable. But we can take satisfaction in the progress we have made, and some of the notable improvements of the past year have been the results of MAGID initiatives.

Thank you for your advice, and the candor with which you have expressed it. I hope you will continue to focus on the larger problems facing the Directorate, that you will continue to give us the benefit of your views, and that you will urge your associates to do likewise.

[REDACTED]
I want to thank you for the very active service you rendered to me, to Paul Walsh, and to the Directorate by participating so energetically on MAGID. Thanks especially for taking on the chairmanship of the group during the latter months of your term.

You and your group have been dealing with problems that are of immediate concern to all of us. Because these issues are often so intractable, you have shared the frustration we sometimes feel in trying to grapple with them. But we have made progress. Your opinions -- and your willingness to express them frankly and forcefully -- have been very helpful to us in considering alternate courses of action.

I hope you will stay in touch, and that you will urge all your associates to help us keep open the channels of communication throughout the Directorate.

I want to thank you for your participation in MAGID during the past year.

The problems the group has dealt with have been difficult ones, but they include some of the most important issues involved in the management of the Directorate. The MAGID input has been valuable to Paul Walsh and to me; it has helped shape our views on many matters.

I hope you will continue to help us -- even though your term on MAGID has ended -- by giving us the benefit of your views and by urging your associates to voice their opinions as well.
